Silikal systems for non-slip, hygienic flooring

Everything is fresh in the “Grand Bazar” supermarket in the Belgian town of Arlon.

This is particularly true following the comprehensive renovation work: a new, light grey Silikal reactive resin floor now ensures that customers enter a friendly, inviting atmosphere.

The new flooring in the sales area of the “Grand Bazar” was created in two work segments: in line with progression of the overall renovation work, an area of approximately 140 square metres was newly coated around the check out area. A few weeks later a further 400 square metres were completed, including the area around the fresh produce and meat products.

Extensive renovation:

There was no need to go to the effort of ripping out the timeworn tiled floor in the course of the renovation work. The tiled floor that was widely damaged and had stains all over was simply overcoated with a new Silikal floor.

An approach that saved time and money. Not least due to the short curing time of the synthetic resins, the installation work could be completed within the intended time frame for the renovation. After just one hour following laying, the new reactive resin flooring was cured and had reached total strength.

CORPORATE DESIGN

The Belgian supermarket was fitted out with a Silikal system broadcasted with coloured quartz. On the one hand, the subtle coloured effect ensures an attractive appearance whilst on the other hand there are practical advantages to the slightly textured and thus non-slip surface. Coving in the corners ensures better hygienic conditions by preventing dirt from gathering there. Over 60 continuous metres were used in the "Grand Bazar". Four floor grilles are also fitted flush into the base.

The new flooring fits perfectly with the corporate branding of the "Grand Bazar" supermarket, with its predominantly red accents.

This corporate colour is now elegantly complemented and brought to life by the light grey of the surface.
